

Part 3 of Form ADV: Client Relationship Summary

August 19, 2026

Item 1 | Introduction

Almega Wealth Management LLC ("Almega", "Firm", "We", "Our") is an Investment Advisor, with registration pending with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), that provides advisory services for a fee rather than brokerage commissions. It is important for you, a retail investor, to understand the differences between the services and fees of an investment advisor and a broker-dealer. Investor.gov/CRS offers free and simple tools to research firms and financial professionals. It also provides educational materials about broker-dealers, investment advisors, and investing.

Item 2 | Relationships and Services

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

Almega Wealth Management offers services to high-net-worth and retail investors: Investment Management, Financial Planning, Retirement Plan Services, and Tax Planning. We customize our services to our clients' individual needs by determining their specific goals, objectives, risk tolerance, time horizon, investment restrictions, and other factors that shape the financial advice they receive. We develop an investment risk profile with you, which we use in our relationship with you to help you understand the potential risks and rewards associated with your investments; this risk profile also helps guide us in the management of your investments. Almega regularly monitors investment accounts for, among other things, allocations of investments that are outside our clients' stated goals and objectives.

Almega Wealth Management typically receives discretionary authority from the client to select investments to be bought or sold during an advisory relationship. This means we may place trades to purchase or sell securities on your behalf without seeking approval from you for each transaction. We exercise investment discretion only in accordance with an Investment Policy Statement, based on the stated risk profile for the particular client account. In limited circumstances, Almega also offers non-discretionary services, in which we obtain the client's prior authorization before implementing investment recommendations.

As a condition for starting and maintaining an investment advisory relationship, Almega Wealth Management generally requires a minimum portfolio size of $1,000,000 and a minimum investment advisory annual fee of $10,000. We, in our sole discretion, may waive our stated account minimums. Typically, we waive this minimum based on the individual client's circumstances, for family members of clients, and for clients referred to us. These minimums may have the effect of making our services impractical for certain individuals.

Additional information about our services can be found in Form ADV Part 2A, Item 4 and Item 7.

You could consider asking us questions like the following:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

Item 3 | Fees, Cost, Conflicts and Standard of Conduct

What fees will I pay?

Almega Wealth Management charges asset-based fees for its services. Our fee for wealth management services, including investment advisory, is based on your total assets under management with our firm, not to exceed 1.1% annually (billed quarterly). The more assets there are in your advisory account(s), the more you will pay in fees; our firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account(s).

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

Additional information on fees and cost can be found in our Form ADV Part 2A, Item 5.

You could consider asking us questions like the following:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?
- What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser?
- How else does your firm make money, and what conflicts of interest do you have?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

- Generally, we are paid based on the assets in your account. We may recommend you add assets or funds to that account. Even though that advice may be in your best interest, it is conflicted because the more money in your account, the more fees we would collect from you.
- We receive client referrals from third parties to whom we pay referral fees. This is a conflict of interest because we have an incentive to pay referral fees to encourage third parties to refer clients to us, whom they might otherwise not refer.

For additional information on conflicts, please refer to our Form ADV Part 2A, Item 4 and Item 10.

You could consider asking us questions like the following:

- How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our advisors are primarily compensated based on the amount of assets under management that they personally manage.

Regardless of how our advisors are compensated, there is an inherent conflict of interest because our financial professionals have an incentive to encourage you to increase your assets in your accounts, recommend our advisory services to you, and recommend you purchase investments that result in additional compensation to them.

Item 4 | Disciplinary History

Do you or your financial professionals have legal or disciplinary history?

Yes. Please visit Investor.gov/CRS for a free and simple search tool to research Almega and our financial professionals.

For additional information about our Disciplinary History, please refer to our Form ADV Part 2A, Item 9, as well as Form ADV Part 2B.

You could consider asking us questions like the following:

- As a financial professional, do you have any disciplinary history? For what type of conduct?
